Two sisters fatally shot in apartment

Neighbors of a Mattapan side street said yesterday that they were shocked that two women were fatally shot inside a nearby home.

"It's devastating, two women getting killed. There are some very nice people here," said Donald, a neighborhood resident who did not want to give his last name.

Police did not identify the women, but said they were in their early 20s.

A relative of the women said they were sisters and identified them as Stephanie and Judith Emile, according to WBZ.

They were found suffering from gunshot wounds inside their apartment at 50 Harlem St., about 9 a.m., police said.

The fatal shootings come a day before Mayor Thomas Menino planned to travel to Washington, D.C., to push for reforms to the national background check system for gun purchases.

Police did not say if they had a suspect. They did ask for the public's help.

"It's really important we have the help of the community," said police Superintendent Bruce Holloway.

Drugs, illness eyed in parent murders

Weymouth teen, Danvers man held without bail for killing parents, relatives Experts say common defenses are self-defense, insanity

Prosecutors said the Weymouth teen who allegedly murdered his mother, sister and mother's boyfriend used a hammer and knife to kill his family members and stuffed a Beanie Baby toy in the man's mouth.

The gruesome details of Thursday's triple murder were revealed yesterday during the arraignment for 18-year-old Donald Rudolph.

He was ordered held without bail after he pleaded not guilty and was ordered to have a mental health evaluation at a state facility in Bridgewater.

Dr. Kathleen Heide, a professor of criminology at the University of South Florida and author of "Why Kids Kill Parents," said it's rare for a child to kill more than one parent or family member.

"Usually when you have multiple-victim incidents either the offender is severely mentally ill or is really enraged and in the course of having started to kill one person ... the individual continues on that violent rampage. It doesn't necessarily have to be intentional," she said.

Heide said the most common types of criminal defenses in parricide cases are self-defense and insanity.

A mental health expert told the court that Rudolph was "not very oriented and he's confused."

Other child violence

A Danvers man was ordered held without bail yesterday for allegedly killing his 60-year-old father.

Stephen Anastasi, 24, was arrested Saturday for beating his father, John, with a hammer and then stabbing him in the home they shared.

Prosecutors said that during the murder Anastasi used heroin, according to the Globe.

On Sunday, a Norton man was arrested for allegedly pinning his 47-year-old mother between the truck he was driving and another car in the driveway of their home.

Eric Dumont, 33, was charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

Assembling Assembly Square 'stop'

The T has unveiled designs for the proposed Assembly Square Orange Line station and tonight the public is invited to meet the team behind the project.

According to the MBTA's website, the new station in Somerville is being constructed to alleviate traffic congestion and add a new stop for Orange Line riders.

The stop will be located between Wellington Station and Sullivan Square and sits in a proposed redevelopment zone slated to include a hotel, residential units and retail and office space.

"[The station] is a crucial part of the overall development area," said Somerville spokesman Tom Champion.

According to Champion, IKEA has even secured permits to build near the station.

In early October, the MBTA Board of Directors granted S&R Enterprises the contract to begin construction on the nearly $30 million project.

According to members from the Somerville Transportation Equity Partnership, the T stop is the "necessary foundation to a sustainable mixed-use project in this waterfront district" which they say has been underutilized for a generation.

Residents are hopeful the new station and adjacent units will provide a majority of Somerville's future job prospects and affordable housing.

The project is scheduled to open in 2014, according to the T's website.

Norway killer admits to massacre

OSLO. Norwegian anti-immigration militant Anders Behring Breivik spoke in open court for the first time yesterday and admitted killing 77 people in attacks in July. But he denied any guilt, saying he was a military commander in a far-right resistance movement.

Breivik sat with his eyes mostly downcast and occasionally bit his lip in a packed hearing to extend his custody before trial.

At one point Breivik attempted to address survivors of Norway's biggest modern-day massacre, but the judge cut him off.

"I am a military commander in the Norwegian resistance movement and Knights Templar Norway," Breivik told the court. REUTERS

Former Penn State coach admits to showers with kids

Disgraced former Penn State coach Jerry Sandusky admitted to showering and "horsing around" with young boys, but claimed that he is not a pedophile in an interview with NBC News' Bob Costas that aired last night.

Sandusky said in his first interview that he hugged children and touched their legs "without intent of sexual contact," but conceded that his conduct was inappropriate. "I shouldn't have showered with those kids," he told Costas.

Allegations of indecent contact date back to 1994, according to a grand jury report, which detailed abuse in hotels, Penn State locker rooms and Sandusky's home. Though he was banned from bringing minors on campus in 2002 after a witness reportedly saw him molesting a boy, he violated the ban at least once, the report says.

Sandusky met his alleged victims through the Second Mile charity, which he founded in 1977 as a group home for at risk boys. He surrendered his daily duties with the organization in 2010.

Sandusky is currently free on $100,000 bond and continues to deny any wrongdoing.

"I have horsed around with kids, I have showered after workouts. I have hugged them and I have touched their legs without intent of sexual contact."

Accuser's boyfriend corroborates story

The former boyfriend of harassment claimant Sharon Bialek recalls meeting with the presidential candidate

Republican presidential candidate Herman Cain faced possibly damaging allegations yesterday from the former boyfriend of a woman who has accused Cain of sexually inappropriate behavior.

The ex-boyfriend of accuser Sharon Bialek, speaking at a news conference in Louisiana, corroborated Bialek's claim that Cain made improper advances to her when she sought help finding a job.

Victor Zuckerman, a pediatrician and former boyfriend of Bialek, said he had met Cain with Bialek and he encouraged her to contact him about employment. Bialek later told him that Cain had engaged in inappropriate touching of her shortly after the alleged incident took place. "When Mr. Cain came to the national spotlight, we reminded each other that this was the man we had met so many years earlier," he said.

"She said that something had happened and that Mr. Cain touched her in an inappropriate manner." ZUCKERMAN

Cain: Veggies are for sissies

WASHINGTON. Republican presidential candidate Herman Cain said yesterday the more pizza toppings a man had, the more "manly" he was.

In an interview with GQ magazine, Cain said "the more manly man is not afraid of abundance" — so long as it's in meat form.

"A manly man don't want it piled high with vegetables!" Cain said. "He would call that a sissy pizza." METRO

Romney: Hey, I'm a victim, too!

WASHINGTON. Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney took a verbal swing at President Barack Obama yesterday, saying that the Democrat and his allies have an "obsession" with attacking him.

Romney, the former governor of Massachusetts, leads many polls in the race to challenge Obama in the 2012 presidential election.

"With each passing day, it is becoming increasingly clear that President Obama and his Democrat allies are fixated more on Mitt Romney than on turning around our struggling economy," Andrea Saul, Romney's spokeswoman, said in a statement.

On Sunday, Obama attacked Romney for saying that the president would not stop Iran from developing nuclear weapons if he were re-elected. REUTERS

Von D on the 'superpoking' Jesse James

Say what you like about Kat Von D, but at least she can admit when she's wrong.

In a rather mature-sounding Facebook blog entitled, "Thank You, Jesse James," which she posted on Sunday, Von D says her relationship with James was "toxic" and claims he cheated on her with 19 women before they broke off their engagement in September.

"I know I deserve a big fat 'I told you so,' from everyone, and wish I didn't have to say, 'You all were more right than you'll ever know' but you were," she writes. "Not to worry, I've gladly paid the consequences for every mistake I've ever made, but learned so much from each of them."

DOROTHY ROBINSON'S WORD BLOG

She isn't too harsh on James in the post. In fact, she actually almost sounds sympathetic: "It just made me sad today to imagine him still in that dark place — where seeking validation through the attention of women takes precedence over being a good father, a sincere friend, a better co-worker and a happy individual."

And that, my friends, is how you take a "superpoker" to task on Facebook.

Just as a refresher: Zolciak and Atlanta Falcons defensive end Kroy Biermann said "I do" before their closest friends and family during a Nov. 11 wedding ceremony in Atlanta.

"I just remember thinking, this is the day I've waited my whole life for," Kim tells Life & Style. "I really do feel like I'm dreaming."

Zolciak wore a $58,000 pre-owned, handmade Baracci gown made of Duchess satin and embellished with Swarovski crystals, pearls and embroidered lace. Life & Style did not disclose where she got her wig.

Talking points

Pitt to quit acting?

Brad Pitt says he wants to retire from acting at age 50. "Three years," the 47-year-old actor declares to the Australian edition of "60 Minutes." "I am really enjoying the producing side and development of stories and putting those pieces together." Pitt has apparently had the end of his acting career on his mind lately, as he recently told Culture magazine,

"We all have a shelf life, and mine is coming." But Pitt and partner Angelina Jolie aren't necessarily planning to quit expanding their family. "You know, I don't know that we're finished. I don't know yet. I don't know," he admits.

▶ Middleton

Middleton can't move on

Pippa Middleton is reportedly having a harder time dealing with her breakup from Alex Loudon than expected, according to the Sun. "Pippa tried to get over the split by spending last weekend with [William and Kate] at Balmoral," a source says. "She and Alex split briefly in the summer, but this time it's over. They are barely speaking." That might explain why she canceled plans to attend the high-profile Square Mile Masked Ball next week.

Stern in talks for 'Talent'

With Piers Morgan bowing out of "America's Got Talent," shock jock Howard Stern is reportedly in talks to replace him as a judge on the talent competition, according to The Associated Press. Sources say Stern is being offered about $15 million a year to join judges Howie Mandel and Sharon Osbourne. There's little rush, though, as judges aren't needed until February.

You can't write a novel in a month in a vacuum

As National Novel Writing Month continues, our experimental author finds more words flow after reading words of others A little advice

www.metro.us
FOLLOW SAM'S PROGRESS ON TWITTER @SAMWRITESANOVEL

National Novel Writing Month is almost half over, and so is my novel, with 25,000 words written. My great discovery this week was that reading is an absolute must when attempting to write any sort of long prose. I took a couple days off from NaNoWriMo and immersed myself in two books: Haruki Murakami's "Sputnik Sweetheart" and Mindy Kaling's new book, "Is Everyone Hanging Out Without Me? (And Other Concerns)."

Have you ever experienced the phenomenon where if you stare at a word for too long, you start to wonder what it actually even means? That's how I felt with all the time I spent with the document open on my computer, trying to think of the next scene to write. Instead of driving myself crazy, I looked to other pieces of literature to remember how to write again.

I allowed myself to leisurely enjoy the books to take my mind off of my own work. Come Sunday morning, I felt re-energized — and when I began writing after two days off, the words seemed to flow off my fingers and onto the keyboard.

With the help of Manhattan-based literary agent Josh Getzler, who so generously offered to read my work as I travel through November, I was able to create a better balance between description and action in the next 15,000 words of my novel. His advice has been helping the story gather direction and meaning. (Thanks, Josh.)

Weaning your baby: Spoon-fed or baby-led?

With your firstborn, it feels like every time you think you've mastered one baby-rearing challenge, you're set with the next. Just when you've stopped fretting about how much milk your growing infant is drinking, you're faced with new anxieties about when to start feeding the baby solids, whether the meal is nutritious enough and if he or she will actually eat it.

There are two major approaches to weaning — the traditional spoon-fed method where the parent is in control, and the modern, "baby-led" weaning where the baby learns to feed itself.

"With first babies, moms often lack the confidence to combine the two methods," says Dr. Rana Conway, author of "Weaning Made Easy." "They find it reassuring to follow a set of guidelines."

▶ "Here comes the airplane!"

STOCKBYTE

There are, however, advantages to both techniques, and combining methods is easy, says Dr. Conway. "The balance between spoon-feeding and self-feeding depends on your baby and what you're doing that day," she explains. "It also changes over time. Most babies need spoon-feeding to start with, but it's also vital to give them something to try to eat with their fingers too, even if they just play with it. They'll be getting the nutrients they need, but they can also learn about real food. After a few months, self-feeding really takes off — and by a year, most babies will only need help with foods like yogurt. It's really about taking a balanced approach and seeing what works."

Two easy meals

For babies, Dr. Conway recommends:

- Left-over pasta with mashed avocado, peas, natural yogurt and grated cheddar
- Scrambled egg, toast pieces and chopped tomato

Can you prevent fussy eating?

"Some babies are just naturally more picky than others," Dr. Conway says, "but evidence shows you can increase the chances of your child enjoying a healthy range of foods if you sit down to eat with them and give them the opportunity to try lots of different foods. It's also essential that you give them healthy meals.

It seems obvious, but if you don't keep offering them vegetables, you can't blame them for not eating their greens. The more often a baby is given a certain food, the more likely she is to eat it and enjoy it. The idea of eating healthy meals together isn't rocket science; but for busy parents, it takes a conscious effort."

Executive pay kills off jobs

RE: "WHY OCCUPY? DEBATE RAGES": What makes right-wingers like Roger Keller think the only acceptable form of competition is winner-take-all? If one person has more ambition, brains and luck than another, let them make more money. Maybe 50 percent more — five, ten times as much. What we have is far more extreme, with a handful of people becoming billionaires while most are squeezed just to pay for housing.
DAN WYLIE-SEARS, BRIGHTON

I was recently told that workers get paid based on what they are worth. A few years ago I would have agreed, but now it seems the only employee that matters to a corporation is the CEO, with most of the other people getting laid off or being asked to work for the same pay rate for multiple years even when their workload has increased substantially.
SEAN DAVIS, VIA E-MAIL

Protesting? Not working

OWS protesters haven't the first clue about the American dream, because the dream that built America was built on one ingredient — work. There's a new dream today: It's not work hard and get ahead. In today's America, work is for suckers. We can't stop illegal immigration — who's gonna do all the work?
MICHAEL CHIMENTI, VIA E-MAIL

OWS is a global movement for a variety of reasons, and one of them is the unfairness of big banks. Who wants to invest their money into a system that is constantly plotting on ways to nickel and dime them? Not only that, these banking institutions have set the bar so high that even small businesses that could be launched to help rebuild our econony are being turned down for loans.
JONATHAN PERRY, VIA E-MAIL

What about Paul, people?

Rarely is Ron Paul mentioned in Metro. He's the only one who's different from Romney, Cain and Perry. They're all the same: sellouts to special interests and corporations.
A.P. BLAKE, BOSTON

The 2012 presidential election seems to be shaping up to a contest between an incumbent who has disappointed many of his supporters and a challenger who is viewed favorably only when compared to his competitors.
DAVID TERHUNE, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Whereas sometimes it is smart not to reveal your plans prematurely, today it might be wise to let others know where you're heading. Get them working with you, not against you.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. In order to get others to readily forgive any infractions you have made, you need to hope you've been merciful with them in the past.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Don't expect those who haven't been supportive of your positions in the past to suddenly be so today. Be prepared to proceed without them.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. A negative attitude will not only make matters worse for you today, but it is likely to be extremely annoying to your associates as well.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Don't get drawn into putting good money after bad again; you've made this mistake in the past. If something didn't work before, why would you think it would now?
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Be careful about entering into a partnership arrangement with someone who owes more than he or she can handle. The responsibility for this person's debts could easily shift to you.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. How you phrase things can either make you or break you today. The wrong choice of words could quickly anger someone who may be a supporter.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Be the first one to generously ante up your fair share of costs for an outing with friends today. Holding back to see what others are giving could seem like you're being cheap.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. The cost of success could be a bit more expensive than you're prepared to pay. Before getting involved in something that is too opulent for you, check with someone who has been there.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Your very nature is adventurous and courageous, yet today small doubts could intimidate you from moving forward on something you've never tried.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Your tolerance for people who tend to be takers rather than givers will be at a very low ebb. If you're forced to work with them today, cross words could be exchanged.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Get into character today, and be as diplomatic as you can. Without meaning to, you could make others think you're competing against them instead of working with them.

Where the sun doesn't set

Want to experience a more laid-back Miami? Sunny Isles Beach offers a great location without all the club kids and posh crowds of South Beach

DEAN LISK
letters@metro.us

Sure, all roads may lead to Rome — but in the Miami-Dade county area, all roads lead to Sunny Isles Beach. Nestled between downtown Miami and Fort Lauderdale, this oceanside community is the perfect stepping stone from which to explore the rest of the region. The center of Florida's Riviera is minutes from trendy Miami Beach to the south and gay-friendly Lauderdale to the north. To the west are some of the state's shopping Meccas, while the east offers swimming, fishing, boating and quick jaunts to the Bahamas.

Learn more about Sunny Isles Beach at www.sibfl.net.

Where to explore

Take a walk along the beach — past the resorts, 1950s hotels, high-end residential condos and the half-mile pier. Friendly lifeguards, who offer everything from CPR to directions, patrol the beach regularly. Walk too far down Sunny Isles' 2.5-mile beach and you encounter the brightly painted lifeguard stations of Haulover — the nude beach where locals, and some well-known celebrities, get rid of their tan lines.

Where to stay

The Trump International Beach Resort offers 390 oversized rooms, including junior and deluxe suites with kitchen facilities for families who want to make their own meals. Feel like eating in? The resort has two restaurants: Neomi's, offering contemporary American cuisine, and Fusion Restaurant and Lounge, offering a new take on Asian.

Where to visit

Once destined to become a housing development, Oleta River State Park has been allowed to grow back into a natural reserve in the midst of a city. The park, with more than 1,000 acres, is popular with joggers, hikers and anyone who just wants to get away from the city for the afternoon. The Blue Moon Outdoor Center rents kayaks, canoes and bicycles so visitors can explore waterways frequented by manatees and dolphins, or bike through 15 miles of trails.

Shopping

Aventura Mall features more than 300 stores and restaurants; it's among the top five highest-grossing shopping centers in the U.S. The Village at Gulf Stream Park is an outdoor shopping and entertainment center where you can place a bet on the horses — just like the Rat Pack did in the mid-'60s.

Tips for (nearly) painless travel this Thanksgiving

It's the busiest travel time of the year Make your getaway slightly less hectic with this advice

With Nov. 23 being the busiest travel day of the year, Thanksgiving travel is always a stressful experience. But you need to see your family sometime, so we asked Gabe Saglie, senior editor of Travelzoo — an online publisher of travel, entertainment and local deals — how to avoid the top headaches. Wondering how to handle the stress of your family when you finally get to your destination? Well, you'll have to figure that out on your own. METRO

1. Don't check bags, but if you must ...

Think like a business traveler and avoid checking bags altogether. But be sure to adhere to carry-on limits, as they're especially enforced during holiday travel periods. If you must check bags, don't overpack; some overweight bags cost $100 if they're more than 50 pounds — or $400 if they're more than 70 pounds on international flights.

2. Be transparent

The plastic baggie is your friend, so know the TSA's 3-1-1 Rule: limit liquids and gels to 3-ounce containers in 1 quart-sized zip-top baggie, and 1 bag per flyer. Also, do not wrap Christmas gifts, as anything that looks suspicious could be unwrapped at security.

WWW.METRO.US/TRAVEL

JEWEL SAMAD/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

▶ A scene from last year at the Reagan National Airport in Washington, D.C., on Nov. 24, 2010.

3. Use technology to your advantage

Download apps to help keep track of things like schedule and gate changes, weather and alternate flights; Travelzoo's iPhone app (and others on the market) allow travelers to browse, book and redeem geo-targeted travel and entertainment deals from their phone, without having to print from a computer. Also, check in from your computer as close to 24 hours before your flight as possible — and program as many details of your itinerary as possible into your smartphone.

4. Package as much as you can up front

Bundling as many aspects of your vacation as possible will save you money. Include things like hotels, show tickets, tours, transportation, etc. to make your overall travel simpler and easier.

5. Consider alternate modes of transportation

Want to avoid airport lines, fees and delays? Map out a highway route and make it a family road trip; just be sure to keep tabs on the weather. And look at travel by train or even bus to both cut travel costs and to create a unique, memorable travel experience.

▶ Tom Brady and the Patriots have all the momentum in the AFC East.

Happy days here again for Patriots

Brady, Belichick both in good moods following win over Jets ◐ Most wins by QB-coach tandem in history

Tom Brady certainly has a way with words.

A day after a decisive 37-16 victory over a huge — and hated — division rival, Tom Brady was in a pretty chipper mood. In fact, he called the Patriots' Sunday night win "pretty sweet."

"It's definitely a different feeling when you win," Brady told WEEI radio. "We got off the field last night, and just to walk into the locker room and celebrate with the guys, really after a tough couple of weeks for us, even battling a very good team last night under some tough conditions, with their home stadium. It was pretty sweet."

With the win, the Pats are a full game up on both the Jets and Bills in the AFC East standings. It was also victory No. 117 for Brady and Bill Belichick collectively, which set a new record for a coach-quarterback tandem.

"There's no [other] coach I'd ever want to play for," Brady said. "He gets us prepared every week. There's so many things I learned from him over the years about mental toughness."

The Patriots seemingly control their own destiny moving forward. As long as they take care of business and win the games on their schedule, they'll earn another division crown. Even Belichick was in a happier frame of mind, as evidenced by his decision to give players off until Wednesday.

"It's pretty exciting. It doesn't happen very often," Brady said. METRO

Win percentage for Tom Brady and Bill Belichick as a QB-coach tandem. Their 117 wins are tops in NFL history.

Injury report

Belichick offered no update yesterday on CB Devin McCourty's status. He suffered a right shoulder injury Sunday night when he collided with teammate Sterling Moore.
